

JOB DESCRIPTION

Sexuality Educator (Freelance)

Who we are

The Zero Period is a non-profit organization established in 2020, with an aim to advocate for and enable comprehensive sexuality education (CSE) in Indian schools. As a part of our intervention strategy, we offer a holistic set of sexuality education programs to ensure all stakeholders— students, teachers and parents— are equally involved and educated to bring about a successful ecosystem change in the school. To know more about us, visit our website: <https://www.thezeroperiod.org/>

What you'll do for us

The Zero Period team is currently looking to onboard a freelance sexuality educator willing to facilitate the Teacher Sensitization Program (TSP) and Teacher Ambassador Program (TAP) offered by The Zero Period to its beneficiary schools. These programs are designed to train and upskill school teachers to be sensitized to the mental, emotional, social and physical needs of children, further enrolling self-motivated teachers to become trained sexuality educators in their school, taking classes to implement our CSE curriculum for Grade 6. Further details of this role shall be shared during the interview rounds.

What you can expect from us

Born amidst a global pandemic, The Zero Period is now over a year old. The inception, ideation and program implementation— all has taken place remotely. The team currently consists of two co-founders who work alongside a few experienced sexuality educators to deliver its programs. You can expect a youth-driven, start-up environment where we ideate and implement as we go. The teacher-training program offered by us will give you a unique grassroots exposure of how Indian audience engages with sexuality education. You will be offered support for your creativity, along with a good scope of autonomy during program implementation.

Role requirements

You can be a perfect fit for us if:

- You have public speaking experience in both English and Hindi; preferably some prior experience in hosting/facilitating workshops for an adult audience
- You are available to contribute approximately 2-3 hours per day
- You have prior knowledge and/or experience in the sexual and reproductive health and rights space (please note: if you are a fresh college graduate with no experience, we will be accepting your application along with a 200-word cover note indicating your desire to be involved in the sexuality education space)

Highly desirable attributes:

- Prior knowledge and experience working with the The YP Foundation and implementing their "Know your Body, Know your Rights" curriculum
- Certification from an accredited source in teaching sexuality education, especially to adolescent children

Location and Remuneration

This position is open for remote freelancers willing to contribute a maximum of 2-3 hours per day, depending on the scheduled days of program implementation. Travel related to program implementation can also be required, but will be conditional and informed much in advance. The freelance fees per hour shall be finalized keeping in mind the candidate's experience and skill, at par with the organization's current fee standards.
